

RisePR

Not everyone can see the benefits of effective PR and Media Relations. Most think PR is a way of putting so called 'spin' on things no matter what it is, this of course is a misconception. Effective communications is the centre of any business, if potential clients don't know about you the chances are they won't use you!

We offer a number of communications services from media relations to the development of corporate identity right through to communications audits and production of full pr and marketing plans.

We offer as little or as much communications advice and/or service as our clients want - anything from newsletter writing, design and production right through to national or European awareness campaigns.

A popular aspect of this service for many of our clients is the provision of website copy, there is no point in looking at a 'pleasing to the eye' site if the messages within it are ineffective.

Whether you need a new corporate identity or simply want to refresh the one you have, Rise Solutions can help. We will work closely with you to find the right image for your company.
